

SCHOOL NEWS OF INTEREST

The Seymour School Board Selects Teachers to Fill All Vacancies.

LAYING OF THE CORNER STONE

Of the New Shields Building Tomorrow—Spelling Bees to be Common.

The school board has filled the vacancies which have occurred recently in the corps of teachers in the city schools. Walter Reagan, of Bridgeport, who graduated this year from the state university, has been selected to succeed Ray Donaker as teacher of science in the high school. Mr. Donaker resigned some time ago. The vacancies caused by the marriage of Miss Margaret Finnegan, and the resignation of Miss Blanche Huffman, to accept a place in the Vincennes schools, have been filled by the selection of Miss Grace Doane and Miss Mary Misch. Both have made excellent records as teachers in the Jackson township schools. Miss Doane has been attending school at Valparaiso this summer.

William Kamman, who resigned as teacher of German in the high school will probably be succeeded by Miss Christine Leblin, of Rockford, who has been tendered the place. She attended school at Indiana University and graduated last spring and is well qualified for the position for which she has been selected. As previously announced Miss Mentoria McDonald will fill the vacancy caused by the marriage and resignation of Miss Schobert.

Last spring when appointments were being made all the old corps of teachers were applicants and were reappointed.

SPELLING-BEES

Will be Common This Year—Study of Agriculture.

Spelling is to receive more attention in Indiana this year than it has for many years. It has been a criticism for a long time that spelling has not received the attention it should in the schools. The state department of public instruction has outlined a plan to overcome this weakness in our educational system and it promises to make "spellin' bees" as common the coming year as they were in early times.

It is proposed to have township, county, district, state and perhaps national contests. It is planned to hold the township contests in December, the county in January, the district in February and the state in March.

The plan will probably be adopted in Jackson county. During institute this month Superintendent Payne will present the matter to the teachers and arrangements for the contests will be made.

The department of public instruction in the course of study it has prepared has outlined a complete course of common school agriculture. This work includes an extensive study of soils, fertilizers, plant enemies, methods in dairying, uses of tools and machinery, gardening, care of fruit trees and plant propagation.

In this county a limited attention will be given to this line of work. In the past, in some of the schools of the country, there has been some study of agriculture and in some instances corn shows or a study of the scoring and grading of corn. This and other similar lines of work will not be allowed to interfere, however, with the regular studies. This year, County Superintendent Payne says reading, writing and arithmetic will be emphasized in the schools of the county.

The department has changed the course in reading, and has selected nine classics for critical study in the class room. They are: "Evangeline," "The Great Stone Face," "Enoch Arden," "Snowbound," "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," "Horatius at the Bridge," "The King of the Golden River," "The Vision of Sir Launfal" and Lamb's tale of "The Merchant of Venice."

A list of fifteen books for outside reading is recommended. The young people's reading circle books for 1910 and 1911 are: "Stories of Famous Pictures," "Little Bear," "Later Cave Men," "Little Girl and Philip," "Tales of Old England," "Hans, the Eskimo," "New Friends in Storyland," "Home Life in All Lands," Moore's "Life of Lincoln," "Thirty More Stories Retold," "Why the Chimes Rang," "The Jungle Book," "Mary Ware, the Little Colonel's Chum," "The Belt of Seven Totems," "Boy Life," "Six Girls and the Tearoom," "Wulnoth, the Wanderer," "A Daughter of the Rich," "The Young Consul" and "Historic Indiana."

NO CEREMONY.

To Attend Laying of Corner Stone of New School Building.

The school officials had expected to have a public ceremony in connection with the laying of the corner stone at the Shields school building, but owing to delays and some misunderstanding the plan has been abandoned and the stone will be placed tomorrow without ceremony. The board invites any one having relics, records, or papers of educational or historical value or other articles which will be likely to interest a coming generation to leave them with J. C. Edwards who will be at the building and they will be placed in the copper box which has been provided. The stone will be placed in the northwest corner.

Returns to Kentucky.

R. W. Bower who has been at home for a few days' visit, has returned to Frymire, Ky. With W. H. Bower and Everett Goss he is interested in the timber business and is in charge of it. About three years ago they bought about 200 acres of timber land near Frymire, Ky., and have been cutting off timber. The work is about completed and they expect to get another tract.

Otto Stockdell is now night clerk at the New Lynn, succeeding Lyman Kelly who went to the Boles at Bloomington.

WILL BE SCATTERED.

Temporary Quarters Secured for County Officers.

The commissioners have made provision for quarters for county officers when the work of remodeling the court house makes removal necessary. This will probably not be for several weeks however.

The auditor and the treasurer will occupy the Adolph Herman building on the north side of the square and the recorder will be in the McCrary building next door.

The superintendent will be located in the vacant room in the Brownstown state bank building. The clerk will have rooms on the second floor of the K. of P. building and court will be held in the club rooms on the same floor.

The sheriff will have his office at the jail.

RAILROAD COMBINATION.

Plan to Combine Southern Indiana and Chicago Southern.

A special from Chicago says: A reorganization plan by which the Chicago Southern and the Southern Indiana, two "Walsh" roads, are to be merged, is announced here by counsel for syndicate subscribers of the Chicago Southern Railway. The plan includes taking the roads out of the hands of receivers, cutting the capitalization down to $7,000,000, and the issuance of $2,500,000 in bonds to make up $400,000 in receiver's certificates now outstanding to provide new working capital. It is expected Myron J. Carpenter, of Lagrange, Ill., receiver, will remain in charge and his name has been mentioned for president. The combined length of the roads will be 342.49 miles from Chicago Heights, Ill., to Westport, Ind.

The contract for frescoing the walls and ceilings of the German Lutheran school building was let Wednesday evening by the trustees, William Buse, George Harlow and John Kamman. There were three bidders, Leroy Miller being the successful one. The walls with be a light green and the ceilings a cream color.

Roosevelt Meeting.

Theodore Roosevelt will speak in Indianapolis on the afternoon of October 13, instead of at night, as was understood originally. It was decided that a daytime meeting was preferable, as it will give the people out in the state a better opportunity to attend.

HAS INSTALLED BLOCK SYSTEM

B. & O. S-W. Now Equipped with Block Telegraph System Through Indiana.

COMPLIES WITH STATE LAW

Adds to Safety of Trains for the Greatly Increased Traffic Over the Road.

The Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern railroad, from Storrs to the Wabash river at Vincennes, and from North Vernon to New Albany on the branch line, has been equipped with the block system. This is in compliance with an Indiana law, which was to have gone into effect a year ago, but an extension of time was obtained for one year, and the law has just become operative since the first of August.

To meet the conditions of the law, the B. & O. S-W. superintendent of telegraph received notice from his superior officers to proceed with the work on July 15, and in six and a half days, with three gangs of men under his direction, one hundred and eighty-three miles of block wire was strung along the main line of the B. & O. S-W., across southern Indiana, and from North Vernon to New Albany on the branch. In this work sixty-two offices were equipped with batteries and telegraph instruments and put in operation. This is a good record considering the territory covered and the number of offices equipped completely and put in operation.

The blocks on the B. & O. S-W. are not being located every five miles, as they are on the Pennsylvania line, but are located wherever there are stations, at approximately five-mile points. For instance, starting from North Vernon the block stations west are located at Hayden, Flemings, Seymour, Dunham, Brownstown, Medora, Fort Ritner, Rivervale and so on west. At each of these stations three trick men are put in charge of the block, making the service complete for the twenty-four hours of the day. Under this arrangement, about seventy-five new telegraph operators have been given employment.

The blocking applies, however, only to passenger trains and not to made to operate freight trains, except that it keeps the main track free from freight trains when a passenger train is in a given block. The road expects the new arrangement to aid in handling the increased traffic and to further safeguard its trains in transit.

A telephone system is now being put in operation in addition to the block telegraph system. At each block station a telephone wire is run to a telephone box at the farther end of the switch, which is sometimes as much as a half mile from the station. This greatly facilitates the train leaving the block as it makes it possible for the conductor to go to the end of the switch with his train and there receive by telephone the order that the block is clear and he can proceed, thus saving him the time of walking from the station to the switch, some distance away. This saving in time frequently amounts to five or ten minutes in the train leaving the block.

Freight traffic on the B. & O. S-W. has been unusually heavy with in the last few weeks with every indication that it will continue so for some time to come.

REV. E. A. CAMPBELL DEAD.

Former Pastor of the M. E. Church Here Is Dead at Indianapolis.

Rev. Edward A. Campbell, who was formerly pastor of the First M. E. church here, died at his home in Indianapolis Wednesday afternoon, August 3, of acute inflammation of the kidneys. He was born at Rising Sun, December 7, 1846, graduated at Moores Hill College and began preaching in 1872. He has held a number of important pastorates in the state, and was presiding elder of the Seymour district after closing his pastorate here, about twelve years ago. He leaves a wife, two daughters and one son.

The Sunday Star.

When George V. Hobart swung into the limelight several years ago by writing his now famous "John Henry" series, he made the other American humorists sit up and take notice. He took hundreds of thousands of readers "Down the Line" with "John Henry," and further engaged their risibles when he followed with "It's Up to You," "Back to the Woods," "Out for the Coin," "I Need the Money," "I'm from Missouri" and "You Can Search Me."

Mr. Hobart has "come back," and he has brought "John Henry" with him. He has written for the Indianapolis Star a series of funny yarns about "John Henry's" courtship, marriage, honeymoon, his flat-hunting and the other joys and troubles which come with the matrimonial state. The first of the stories will appear Sunday, August 7, and there will be one each week until the series is exhausted.

Sells Property.

R. W. Irwin has sold his residence property on O'Brien street to Henry Pollert from south of the city for $3,000. The new owner expects to move to town.

Work and Social

The Owls had work last night and following it had a social time and smoker.

The dispatches from Washington the first of the week, giving prices for the proposed postoffice sites in Seymour, stated that the southeast corner of Ewing and Secons streets was offered at $32,500. This seems to be an error, as some of the property owners there say this is greatly in excess of their price.

The hay ride given Tuesday night in honor of Miss Flossie Allen's guest, was not arranged by Miss Allen, as stated yesterday, but was arranged by some of Miss Allen's friends, and was a surprise to her as well as to her guest.

Mrs. Alex Love, who had an operation performed at the hospital Tuesday, is getting along well.

A WRECK

At Pennsylvania and Southern Indiana Crossing.

About nine o'clock last night at the Pennsylvania and Southern Indiana crossing north of the city a wreck occurred which though not doing great damage, caused considerable delay to trains on the last named road.

An extra freight on the S. I. in charge of Conductor Gore and Engineer Schott ran into a Pennsylvania freight which had the crossing, knocking a coal car off and blocking the S. I. tracks. The pilot on the engine was considerably damaged. The coal car was one of the low sided gondola kind and with a stock car at each end it appeared to the engineer that the Pennsylvania train had been cut and the track was clear. He had reaching the crossing. A Pennsylvania wrecking crew came from Columbus but it was not until about four o'clock this morning that the S. I. tracks were cleared. The freight and the passenger train due here at 10:00 p. m. were held at the crossing. The passengers from the latter train had to walk to the city.

The crossing is low and the work of raising it has been going on for some time. It is reported that the S. I. is planning to put in an interlocking switch and tower some time this year. Such an improvement would prevent such wrecks as that of last night.

THE COLONEL IS A SOCIOLOGIST

Takes a Trip Into Mine Region of Pennsylvania.

GETTING FIRST-HAND VIEWS

Attracted to the Subject by a Settlement Worker's Story in a Magazine, Colonel Roosevelt Whizzes Over into the Anthracite Region in an Automobile to See Just How the Miners and Their Families Live.

Scranton, Pa., Aug. 3.—Colonel Roosevelt has turned sociologist. He has forsaken the field of politics for the time being and is now a social worker. He came into the heart of the anthracite coal regions of central Pennsylvania to see how the miners live and what they do. The colonel, with all of his characteristic vigor and energy, spent ten hours visiting the homes of the workers, inspecting the mines and taking a look into the conditions of the young women who are employed in the silk mills near here. He had a perfectly bully time. The mystery of a quiet little trip has been solved.

The colonel admitted that on his way across the Atlantic six weeks ago he was attracted by an article in a magazine describing the folks who live in these neglected parts. He thought that something ought to be done for the unfortunates who have no means of real legitimate amusement when they emerge from the dark recesses of the mines or the stuffy silk mills. He decided to come up and see for himself.

Mr. Roosevelt traveled through the Lackawanna valley in an auto, whizzed over dirty hot roads, had lunch in a dairy and there were not enough glasses to go around, and met the men who whooped it up for T. R., until the colonel beamed and beamed. The identity of the ex-president was unknown for a good part of the trip. Rough, hearty workers, covered with soot, grasped his hand and told him that he was the goods. He liked that, too. Mr. Roosevelt declared that his idea in coming up here was merely to inspect, and nothing else. He said that any conclusions to be drawn from this visit will be drawn by him.

Scranton did not know what was up when the colonel breezed up the main street. Traffic was delayed and there was the worst sort of confusion until Roosevelt assured everyone that he was not boosting a nomination nor dictating a platform, but simply having a party. Lawrence Abbott, son of the Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, was with him. So were Miss Florence L. Sanville, who wrote the magazine article that he spoke of, and Miss Fanny Cochran. Both of these women lived for two weeks in the silk mill region and studied the problem from the viewpoint of the settlement worker.

John Mitchell, former president of the mine workers, came here to confer with Roosevelt on the condition of the miners throughout the coal belt of Pennsylvania. The colonel expects to return to New York and Oyster Bay on the midnight train tonight. He may write a piece about these subjects later on.

A GOOD SLEUTH

Captain Kendall Receives Credit For Success of Crippen Quest.

Montreal, Aug. 3.—According to every man jack of the officers and crew of the Montrose, which now lies in port after her eventful journey with Dr. Crippen and Miss Leneve as passengers, the whole credit of capturing the fugitives from London belongs to Captain Kendall, commander of the vessel and to the captain alone.

It was he who first scented a clue, it was he who followed it up, and it was he alone who planned all the details of the arrest at Father Point. Inspector Dew and his Canadian colleagues were merely obeying orders when they stepped aboard the Montrose disguised as pilots.

She Has Told Her Story.

Quebec, Aug. 3.—"Ethel Clare Leneve may be innocent of any share in the murder of Belle Elmore," said Inspector Dew. "She has told me her simple story and it is sufficient to clear her of any guilt if certain facts which she sets forth are established. She is doing all she can to shield Crippen, however, and constantly in her discussion of the case she repeats her belief that he is innocent. We know better." The girl appears on the verge of collapse, but the little doctor gives evidence of having regained his spirits.

No Sympathy From the Cardinal.
New York, Aug. 3.—Cardinal Gibbons, who is here on his annual vacation, has come out against woman suffrage. "I am not in favor of allowing women to vote," he declared. "There are so many better things to engage their attention. Let them reign in the kingdom of the home, which is their proper sphere."

She Was Despondent.

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 3.—Despondent over ill health, which forced her to give up her position as bookkeeper, Miss Gertrude Schweitzer, aged twenty-two, committed suicide.

JEFFERSON DAVIS IN STATUARY HALL

Attorney General's Decision
Clears Mississippi's Way.

Washington, Aug. 2.—There is a possibility that a statue of Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy, may be selected by the state of Mississippi as its contribution to Statuary hall in the capitol here. It has been suggested that the statue of Jefferson Davis should be selected for this place by the state of Mississippi. Under the recent opinion of Attorney General Wickersham, there is no legal obstacle to placing Jeff Davis' statue or that of any other Confederate leader in Statuary hall.

This question was definitely settled by the attorney general in the Lee case, which was recently decided. Protests were made to President Taft against the presentation by the state of Virginia of a statue of General Lee for Statuary hall. Mr. Taft referred the protests to the department of justice for an opinion. In his opinion attorney general Wickersham declares the act of congress places no restriction on the designation by the states of those whom they may desire to honor by placing their statues in Statuary hall, nor has any official the authority to exercise censorship in the matter of costume.

A Pleasant Surprise.

A small boy of Washington square, brought up by a fire eating father to hate anything connected with England or the English, was consigned recently to eat dinner in the kitchen with his nurse while the family entertained a genuine M. P. in the dining room. The grownups' meal had come to that "twenty minutes past" stage where conversation halts direfully when a childish treble fell upon the horrified diners' ears piping up the dumb waiter shaft from the kitchen. This was what the astonished M. P. heard:

DURBIN FAVORS TARIFF BOARD

Former Governor Talks of Need for Sensible Adjustments.

TAFT "MEANS BUSINESS"

Interesting Statement Calls For Both
Public and Private Thrift Among People.

Indiana Republicans always are interested in Col. W. T. Durbin's views of public affairs. He is sane, just and conservative. His judgment in politics and in business is almost invariably good. When he speaks he gains a quick and respectful hearing. When he writes he never fails to make clear just what he means. He is entitled, for many good reasons, to be given thoughtful consideration by all Republicans. Col. Durbin's most recent public statement proves that he is standing on the Indiana Republican platform, and that he is ready to do his part in proving to the voters the wisdom of progressive policies demanded by the Republican party.

Of the tariff commission idea, which is given prominent place in the Indiana platform, Col. Durbin says:

"I am heartily in favor of a tariff commission. I regard that as a sensible, business way of getting at results that will be fairest to everybody. There is a way of making tariff schedules equitable, and that is by the information gathered by a tariff commission, or its substitute, the tariff board, for which $250,000 was appropriated at the recent session of congress.

"Backed by President Taft, who means business, and by the ample funds provided, this board, I believe, will exert great influence for good in future tariff making."

Ex-Governor Durbin's rallying cry for business administration, and his sensible demand for personal and public economy, have met with ready response in Indiana, among all classes. It is encouraging to Republicans to know that Col. Durbin is to take his usual active interest in the campaign.

COL. DURBIN'S VIEWS TERSELY PUT.

I am only an old-fashioned Republican, and I'm going to say what I think.

People are living high. They don't watch the corners.

The cause of a great deal of complaint over the country is extravagance.

The most necessary reform in Indiana is a reduction of taxes.

In the national government extravagance reaches its full fruition.

Office holders are eternally trying to further their own interests at the sacrifice of economy.

The people are to blame. If they want economy in public affairs they can get it.

When an industry is stimulated to a certain point by a protective tariff it is time to ease off.

Without the tariff we should have had no tin-plate industry. But now it is time to ease off.

I am heartily in favor of a tariff commission.

I have great faith in the tariff board and believe that its creation makes a long step forward in tariff legislation.—Col. W. T. Durbin, in a statement given to the Indianapolis Star, July 24, 1910.

EXPENDITURES AND TAX LEVIES FOR THE YEAR 1911.

The Trustee of Grassy Fork Township, Jackson County, Ind., proposes for the yearly expenditures and tax levies by the Advisory Board at its annual meeting, to be held at the school house of School District No. 4, on the 6th day of September, 1910, commencing at 1 o'clock p. m., the following estimates and amounts for said year:

ROOSEVELT HAD FINE TIME OF IT

The Colonel Basked In Smiles of Miners.

GREETED AS THE BEST EVER

Second Day's Triumphant Tour of the Anthracite Region Gave the Colonel a Further Opportunity to Look Into Homes of Miners and Receive the Affectionate Greeting of All With Whom He Came in Contact.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 4.—The contributing editor continued his mission of uplift among the mining classes of the Wyoming valley yesterday. He spent the day whirling along through several little towns, where he was received with a great show of enthusiasm. At Kingston they hailed Theodore Roosevelt as the next president of the United States. Flags fluttered in the breeze. Women trotted out their broods of children and pointed with pride to the man who decried race suicide. The grimy miners of various races cheered the colonel until they got tired of cheering. In many respects it was as grand a day as the day before in the Lackawanna valley.

Mr. Roosevelt repeated that he does not want the impression to be spread that he is investigating labor conditions in these parts. He said that he simply wants to look over the social side. He declared that there is no significance in the fact that John Mitchell, ex-president of the United Mine Workers, accompanied him on his second journey. His intimacy with the Catholic clergy whom he met at every turn of the road is merely the result of old friendship and regard for them. The Rev. Father J. J. Curran, his host, has been a big figure in the mine troubles up here.

The news of the coming of Roosevelt was carried through the valley with startling rapidity. As the big car sped into Pittston, T. R. was greeted by miners who straggled along the sidewalks, and by their wives, who had the kiddies all dodged up for the occasion. The colonel inspected the Roosevelt school and said that it is all right. A Mrs. E. J. Gibbons, tipping the beam at 275 pounds, trotted out her family just as the great man was about to depart. She insisted upon introducing all the little Gibbonses and remarked to her eldest daughter: "Ain't he handsome, Minnie?" The colonel blushed in righteous embarrassment, but he told Mrs. Gibbons that she was immense.

All through the town of Pittston the crowds gathered and the children were played up for all they were worth. The folks of the country thought the greatest theory Roosevelt ever expounded was the anti-race suicide theory. In the Italian colony the colonel lingered for some time, caressing the children, chatting with mothers, and rapidly going through several homes that he wanted to gather color from. With Rose Conti, a five-year-old "little mother" of the type so common in the east side of New York, the colonel spoke in Italian. The colonel is not any too proficient in that tongue, but he managed to make himself understood and made a bit with the Italians who saw the tableau.

The party returned to the home of Father Curran for luncheon. About forty of the Catholic clergy were present. The colonel made a speech and so did John Mitchell. Then they all returned to Kingston, where they received a dynamite salute and a rousing reception, consisting mostly of cheers and other noises. At Avondale the colonel entered the home of Owen Mathews. Mrs. Thomas McLaughlin, Mathews's mother, exhibited twelve kids of the family and then showed to T. R. a neat volume entitled "Life of Theodore Roosevelt, the Intellectual Giant."

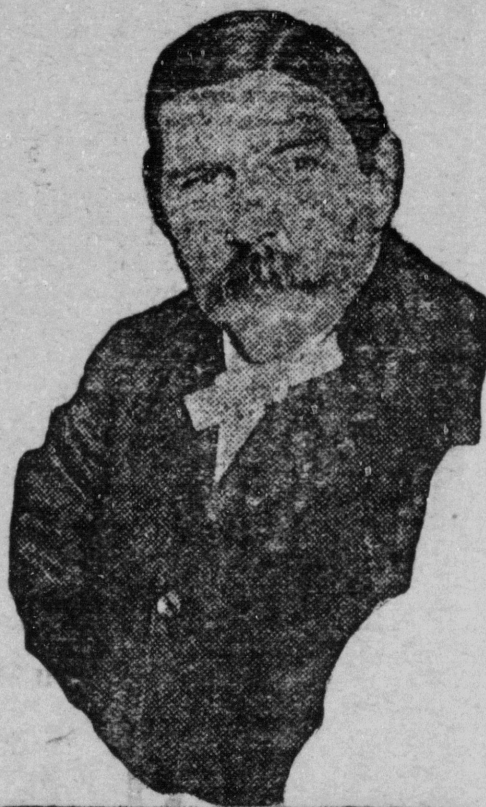

Someone with a great deal of temerity asked the colonel if he was the author, but the colonel roared that he was not. Whoever wrote that book must be ashamed of it, because he did not have the nerve to sign his name as regular authors do. The "Life of Theodore Roosevelt, Intellectual Giant," is the family bible of the Mathews and McLaughlins. The call was interrupted by the intrusion of Mrs. George Gart and her family of seventeen. "And with the help of God," she said, "I'll have three more and make it a round twenty."

"By George, but wasn't that fine?" Mr. Roosevelt's voice reached the ears of an aged woman sick abed. She rose, dressed and limped toward the colonel's auto as he was going away. Mr. Roosevelt hastened to meet her. He cheered the old lady up and she went back to bed prepared for the worst so long as she had looked on the great man. Late last night the colonel flew down the mountain side, reaching the station in time to catch the midnight train for New York.

OHIO'S CAPITAL IS GROWING QUIETER

Large Part of the State Guard Leaves Today.

Columbus, O., Aug. 4.—Today witnessed the departure of two regiments of the national guard with auxiliary command, Troop A, of Cleveland, from Columbus, leaving three regiments, a cavalry troop, a battery and a hospital and ambulance company here to assist the police in coping with the street car strike situation. For two days there has been no rioting and the division formation of the militia was dispensed with. This necessitated the departure of Senator Dick, who has been here under the title of Major General Dick, in chief command.

Governor Harmon's attempt to settle the strike has failed. He called upon the Columbus Railway and Light company and the union to accept as final the decision of the state arbitration board, but both refused.

Governor Campbell Sends Drastic Message to Texas Legislature.

Austin, Tex., Aug. 4.—Governor Campbell sent a message to the legislature recommending the enactment of a radical anti-saloon law, which if put into effect will give state-wide prohibition. Bills were introduced in the house and senate covering the governor's recommendations. One of them prohibits the sale of liquor within ten miles of a public school building or other state educational institution, and another prohibits the sale of liquor in less than one-quarter packages and that it shall not be drunk on the premises where sold. A majority of the house and senate favor the pending measures.

Humor and Philosophy

ROYAL SPORT.

WHEN the king would go a hunting
Attendants go along
To pack his guns and luggage,
Although he may be strong,
For kings are never anxious,
You know, to come to bat
When there is heavy lifting
And service such as that.

A gang to beat the bushes
With sticks and pans of tin
Go out the game to locate
And slowly drive it in.
They scare up timid rabbits
And send them to the spot
To where his royal highness
Can safely take a shot.

The gun man gets excited,
And in his trembling palm
He holds the trusty weapon.
The king alone is calm.
He shoots the gun and misses
By two feet and a half,
And not a single witness
Has got the nerve to laugh.

And after all these doings
The king, fatigued indeed,
Must hurry to the palace,
His royal face to feed,
And then the great adventure
Is printed in a book
Where lovers of crass fiction
May pause to take a look.

Easy.
"He has money to burn."
"Has he?"
"I should say so."
"Then I suppose
he has no difficulty in striking a match to burn it with."

The Acme.

"Jenkins is awful lazy."
"Is he?"
"Yes, and a great sufferer."
"From what?"
"Insomnia."
"What! A lazy man suffer from insomnia?"
"Horribly."
"But I thought lazy folks went to sleep easily."
"But you see Jenkins is too lazy to go anywhere."

Big Proposition.

"Keep cool."
"Keep cool?"
"Yes."
"I won't."
"Why?"
"You idiot, do you think I want either to enrich or to run opposition to the ice trust?"

Dangerous.

"Baby has scarlet fever, madam."
"Are you sure, nurse?"
"The doctor has so pronounced it, madam."
"Dear me! Tell Fidele to take Fido to a hospital. The poor dear might get the infection here."

Time Went On.

"You told me those eggs I bought yesterday were fresh."
"They were, madam, when you asked me, but you must remember you told me all of your family history before you decided to take them."

Dyspeptic.

"Doesn't it always make you feel good to eat a good dinner?"
"No."
"No?"
"It always makes me cross."

That's the Question.

"What book are you reading, daughter?"
"Shakespeare."
"Who is the author?"

Hardly the Same.

But still he plays a part.
He may not know the art of work,
But he's a work of art.

IOWA REPUBLICANS AT PARTING OF WAYS

State Convention Splits Wide
Open On the Tariff.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 4.—The Iowa Republican state convention declared by a vote of 805 to 568 that it disapproves of the Payne tariff law as not being a fulfillment of the pledges of the national platform of two years ago, and gave cordial endorsement of the action of Senators Cummins and Dolliver and the insurgent members of the house in refusing to support the tariff, railway and other measures of the administration. So bitter was the controlling element that Taft's picture was denied a place among the other illustrious Republicans who adorned the walls of the Coliseum. To cap the climax of apparent resentment, Temporary Chairman Senator Cummins refused to mention the president by name, and when he sought to eulogize Republican leaders by beginning with Lincoln and ending with Roosevelt, 500 stalwarts refused to let the speech making continue till the name of Taft was included in the list. Pandemonium reigned for ten minutes. Senator Cummins stood pat upon this matter, however, and eventually was permitted to resume his speech.

There were majority and minority reports covering every stage of the day's proceedings. When the committee on permanent organization recommended Senator Dolliver for permanent chairman the stalwart faction balked and presented the name of J. C. Mabray of Albia. Dolliver won over Mabray by 285 votes. In taking the gavel Senator Dolliver reiterated the sentiment expressed by his colleagues and said that he had come to do his own thinking. He promised also to stump Iowa this fall in defense of his action in the last session of congress. The resolutions committee compromised in the matter of the administration of Governor B. F. Carroll. His indictment for criminal libel was ignored and his record endorsed in glowing terms. It was upon the tariff that the parting of the ways was reached.

SAVING GIRDLED TREES.

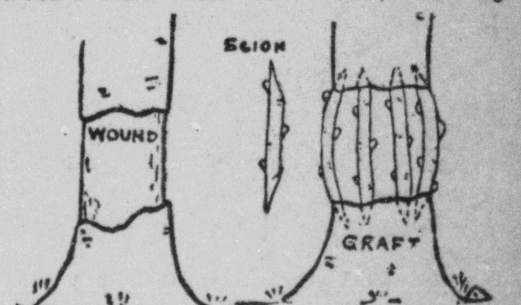

Bridge Grafting a Remedy For Injuries Caused by Rabbits.

The injury done by rabbits to fruit trees in many orchards is discussed by J. G. Moore of the University of Wisconsin in the Country Gentleman. When the girdle is only three or four inches wide the tree may be saved by bridge grafting. Trees with large patches of bark removed entirely around the trunk cannot be successfully treated, though those not too badly injured may be saved by special treatment.

Bridge grafting should be done in early spring, scions from healthy trees being selected. The torn edges of the wound should be cut off smooth and all badly loosened bark removed. The scion should be cut half or three-quarters of an inch longer than the wound and the ends of the scion pointed.

The scion may then be inserted under the edge of the bark, care being taken to have the cut on the scion made rather slanting, to give considerable space for it to unite with the bark of the tree. Several of these scions should be put in around the tree at intervals of not more than one and one-half inches. On small trees, three or four scions will be sufficient.

It is a good practice to paint over the wound areas with white lead, and they may further be protected by binding with cloth. Care should be taken, however, to see that the twine that holds the cloth is not so tight as to girdle the newly set scions. After the scions have become firmly established the cloth may be removed.

METHOD OF BRIDGE GRAFTING.
[From the Country Gentleman.]

The scions will continue to increase in size, and as they approach each other the union of one scion to the other may be accomplished by shaving the sides of the scions. In time the whole girdled area may be entirely healed over in this way.

In some cases bridge grafting will not be necessary. If the inner bark has not been removed by the rabbits the tree may be saved by immediately protecting the girdled area before it has had time to dry out by wrapping with cloth which has been treated with grafting wax. The inner bark will then form an outer bark without serious injury. Where it can be used this method is better than bridge grafting. Trees on which the bark has been removed along the sides and not entirely around the trunk will be benefited by painting the wound. Before this is done, however, the rough edges of the bark should be removed so as to facilitate healing.

Cabbage Cultivation.

After setting out cabbage the plants require shallow, level cultivation until the crop matures. Too much cultivation cannot be given, and especially after every rain should the ground be thoroughly stirred. A fine tooth horse cultivator is one of the most satisfactory implements for this purpose. At the Maine experiment station mulching the plants with straw or similar material in a dry season tended to increase the size of the head. At the Nebraska station also a straw mulch was found very beneficial.—Orange Judd Farmer.

Hog Marketing Record.

An Indiana farmer who recently purchased a motorcar immediately put it to good use in carrying a 450 pound hog a distance of six miles to market. He claims the world's hog marketing speed record.—Farm Press.

Judge Supreme Court, Second District—Oscar H. Montgomery, Seymour.

Judge Supreme Court, Third District Robert M. Miller, Franklin.

THE TARIFF COMMISSION.

The appointment of a tariff board authorized at the last session of Congress is the starting of a business-like administration of what should always have been a matter of business. Senator Beveridge who actively advocated the appointment of such a commission from the very beginning, has received many strong words of commendation from all parts of the United States for his active work in behalf of one of the largest pieces of legislation among the many which this congress inaugurated. The idea of a tariff commission is in line with the policy of the Republican party which has always stood for a protective tariff covering the difference in the cost of production here and abroad. To equalize conditions and to give American manufacturers the opportunity to develop as none have ever developed in the history of the world has been the purpose of the tariff, and that policy can be pursued in a more businesslike method than ever before under the tariff commission idea. The Republican party is to be congratulated that it has inaugurated this great movement in addition to the long list it already has to its credit in constructive legislation.

WANTED, A LEADER.

The location of Seymour is such that it has a decided advantage over surrounding towns as a business centre. Traveling men recognize that the railroad facilities here are unsurpassed in southern Indiana, and many of them make Seymour their home. Our three railroads and our interurban lines make it possible to go in most directions at almost any hour of the day or night. Our business men have shown that they can do public spirited things when occasion arises. The farming land about Seymour is as productive as can be found. Our factories run steadily throughout the year, and many of our laboring people own their own homes and are comfortably situated. In looking over the conditions there seems to be but one factor lacking to cause Seymour to take some long strides forward at once, and that factor is a leader. Every business man in Seymour is a busy man without leisure to devote to public interests; but if the man can be found, a man who has the natural ability to lead men; a man whose integrity is above question, the latent energy here could be united into a force that would work wonders for our good city. And the man who can do this work would bring credit not only to himself, but to the city as well.

Notice to Republicans.

Notice is hereby given to the Republican precinct committeemen of Jackson county to meet for conference at Brownstown on Thursday, August 11, at 10:30 a. m. State Chairman Edwin M. Lee and District Chairman J. M. Bauer and at least one state candidate will be present. Every member of the county committee is urged to be present. Party workers and Republicans of the county in general are cordially invited.

W. P. MASTERS,
a10d&w County Chairman.

M. Absalom and sister, Mrs. Frank Rosberry and the latter's guest, Miss Mitchell, of Indianapolis, went to Rockford this morning to spend the day.

MINERS FACING ANOTHER CRISIS

Their Union On Point of Disruption, 'Tis Said.

COMPELLED TO MAKE TERMS

President Lewis is Reported to Have Found Himself in a Position Where He is Compelled to Make Terms With Operators or See Thousands of Miners Return to Work Under Open Shop Conditions.

Indianapolis, Aug. 4.—The calling of a special international convention by President Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America to meet in this city Aug. 11, is regarded by members of the organization as the first step in what may prove to be the disruption of the organization. It is said that Lewis finds himself in a position where he is compelled to make terms with the operators or witness the return to work of thousands of miners under open shop conditions, and if this should occur the example would be fatal to the organization and what it has taken years to build up would be torn to pieces within a month. According to persons here who know the conditions the treasury of the United Mine Workers has been so depleted in the last four months that the balance is lower than it has been in ten years. The returns from assessments, special and general, have been comparatively small since April 1, because so many men have been idle, and it is no secret in the organization that the miners have become restless and want to return to work on the conditions proposed by the operators.

The Illinois miners are said to be the only exceptions, and President Lewis does not believe they would hold out longer if they understood the real conditions in which the organization has been placed by the protracted strike. Lewis is said to fear the disruption of the organization if matters continue as they are, and but for this he would not take the risk of assembling them in convention at this time.

TOO REALISTIC

Muncie Boys Burn Companion at Stake in Imitation of Moving Pictures.

Muncie, Ind., Aug. 4.—To a moving picture film in a local 5-cent theater depicting the burning of a white man at the stake by a party of Indians, is attributed the probably fatal injury of William Johnson, the six-year-old son of Lloyd Johnson. While the child with a company of children of his own age were playing Indian, it was decided to burn one of the number at the stake, as depicted in the picture film, which some of them had seen. The choice fell on the Johnson lad and he willingly consented. Newspapers were placed under him and twined about his body and then set on fire. It was the intention of his companions to put out the fire before the boy was harmed, and they rushed valiantly to his rescue when they saw him writhing in pain, but they were too late.

TROOPS ON GUARD

Governor Willson Takes a Hand in Supposed Night Rider Case.

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 4.—Governor Willson has ordered a military patrol established in Lyon county, where Axtree Cooper was murdered by supposed night riders. The governor gave out a statement in which he comments unfavorably on conditions in Lyon county and states that he will go to any length to stop the reign of terror "which undoubtedly holds sway" there. The governor ordered Colonel Bassett to turn over to the civil authorities the five men he has under arrest charged with the Cooper murder, although Colonel Bassett has indicated to the governor that he believes the civil authorities are only anxious to secure the release of the accused men.

CUT WIFE'S THROAT

Gary Man Resented the Complaint of His Child Bride.

Gary, Ind., Aug. 4.—Ten days ago Marie Urso, a thirteen-year-old girl was taken to Chicago by her parents and was forced to marry Joachim Daviso. Yesterday she appealed to Mayor Knotts, saying she was forced to marry and she did not wish to live with her husband. An hour after Daviso met her on the street and cut her throat with a razor. She is dying at the hospital and Daviso is in jail.

To Cover the State.

Indianapolis, Aug. 4.—Edwin M. Lee, Republican state chairman, is arranging for the most comprehensive statewide organization that was ever attempted in Indiana. Next week fifteen committees will be sent into the congressional districts for conferences with the workers and there will be "get together meetings" in every city in the state.

Caught at the Crossing.

Muncie, Ind., Aug. 4.—Luther L. Perdue, aged fifty, a prominent real estate and insurance agent of this city, was run over by a fast Lake Erie & Western passenger train at the Plum street grade crossing, and injured so seriously that he died.

LOCATES IN SEYMOUR.

C. B. Spangler Will Practice Osteopathy in This City.

The Republican takes pleasure in calling attention of its readers to the fact that Dr. Clyde B. Spangler and family have moved to Seymour to reside. Dr. Spangler, who is associated with the Spaulhurst Institute of Osteopathy at Indianapolis, is a physician of learning and experience, having received his training immediately under the founder of Osteopathy at Kirksville, Missouri.

It will be most gratifying to the afflicted of this community to know the Spaulhurst-Spangler osteopaths have located here permanently, where genuine treatment is so much needed. Their conscientious, thorough, painstaking care and candid, helpful advice given each individual case appeals to the intellectual, the cultured, the thoughtful, and their splendid ability and cures commend them to those who suffer and are not improving under present treatment.

They are unquestioned in skill, unusual in ability and full of sympathy, which inspire them to diligent personal efforts in aiding sick and disabled people to health.

Increasing patronage bestowed by the thinking people of this community, evidence their appreciation of the opportunity the skilled Spaulhurst-Spangler osteopaths offer to rid them of disease at their offices over the First National Bank.

To serve the best interests of their growing practice treatment will be given at night to those whose work prevents them from coming during regular office hours.

Those who have given osteopathy a fair trial regard it the best investment of their life. It relieves pain, brings comfort, adds health, prolongs life, and thus makes possible greater happiness to mankind.

Seymour people will certainly welcome these nature doctors to this community and accord them the liberal patronage and support which they have earned and to which their skill and ability entitle them.

PETERSON DROPS PARTY PLATFORM

Democrat Making Race For Congress on a Protective Tariff Platform.

OUT TO "CATCH VOTES"

"Joe Bailey" Attitude Taken by State Convention Denounced by Marshall.

"Anything for votes," seems to be the Democratic cry in Indiana this year.

First came Governor Marshall, in his state convention keynote, demanding of Senator Shively that the tariff plank—then in Shively's hands—be a tariff-for-revenue only plank.

Then came the plank itself, which ignored tariff for revenue only, and said: "Tariff taxation should be for public purposes only and should be so levied as not to discriminate against any section, class, industry or occupation, and limited to the actual necessities of the government economically administered."

This was a bald bid for votes, impliedly offering assurance that Democrats would not demand tariff revision downward.

In short, the Governor Marshall view was passed by and the Joe Bailey evasion was adopted, with the aid of Senator Shively, on the principle of "anything to catch votes."

Governor Marshall, personally, is demanding an immediate revision of the tariff to a revenue only basis. But there is no echo to his wailing cry. On the other hand comes John B. Peterson, Democratic nominee for congress in the Tenth district, making the race for office on a protective tariff platform, which is a bold paraphrase of the Indiana Republican platform.

Peterson is a protectionist Democrat. He refuses to stand with Governor Marshall. He refuses even to conceal his position, as Senator Shively tries to do. He makes a bid for votes as a protectionist, from the same platform his opponent stands upon. "Anything to catch votes" seems to apply in his case in a most notable degree.

BOOSTS

Matthews is to have a new window glass factory.

The Peru woolen mills will resume business.

Terre Haute reports the heaviest freight traffic ever known.

Returned prosperity has taken down the "for rent" signs at Anderson.

Machinery has been installed for a new cement tile factory at Winamac.

The new Boyer flour mill at Bowling Green is being equipped for work.

Sullivan county miners are enjoying an era of steady work and good wages.

East Chicago has just added the Chicago Flexible Shaft Company's new plant.

A new electric plant is being built at Sullivan to supply light for Sullivan, Shelby and Farmersburg.

The Wabash Valley traction company will build a $200,000 car barn and repair plant at Ft. Wayne.

POLITICAL POINTS

Tom Taggart seems to believe he is the only man who can "crank up" the Democratic auto so it will run right.

Governor Marshall was quick to drop the question of church activity in public affairs. The issue became too hot even for asbestos gloves.

On learning that John W. Kern was in far-away Michigan, Senator Shively promised to come out of the bushes and confer on Democratic campaign plans.

Sam Ralston, Taggart's this year's choice, has supplanted Stokes Jackson at the head of the Democratic campaign in Indiana. Taggart generally has his own way in the end.

Anti-Bryan Democrats in Nebraska cheered when heated orators cursed the Commoner on a state convention floor. The same crowd that downed Mr. Bryan in his home state holds Democratic control in Indiana.

The Taggart press bureau persistently calls attention to the fact that "Governor Marshall and Thomas Taggart addressed the meeting, and were agreed that Democratic prospects," etcetera. The Democratic governor ought to feel flattered by this constant linking of his own name with that of the Casino boss.

BRYAN'S ORATORY NOT FOR INDIANA

Taggart Hears Commoner is "Down and Out," So Holds Up Invitation.

BATTLE HAS ONLY BEGUN

Premature Jollification Among Anti-Bryan Democrats Deeply Resented.

(Special Correspondence.)

The combined bosses and interests overwhelmed W. J. Bryan in Nebraska after fighting for more than a dozen years to down the Peerless Leader. The anti-Bryan victory of the special interests in Nebraska makes it more than ever certain that the same special interests in Indiana will not invite Mr. Bryan to make Democratic campaign speeches this year.

Mr. Bryan will not be heard on the Democratic hustings in Indiana.

It is significant that Indiana organization Democrats withheld their invitation from Mr. Bryan until after the finish of the fight which ended in his temporary overthrow a few days ago. The Bryan invitation still is being withheld.

That is one reason why it can be declared that Bryan's voice will not be raised for the Indiana Democracy, as now controlled. Another reason is that Mr. Bryan will not accept a Taggart invitation under any conditions. If he comes to Indiana, it must be by grace of Taggart, and censored by Taggart. So, manifestly, it is impossible for Mr. Bryan to come.

The Taggart Democrats in Indiana are jubilant over the outcome of the Nebraska Democratic convention. "Bryan is down and out," said one of them yesterday. "He can't come back. He's a dead duck, politically. We don't need him in Indiana, and we don't want him."

But Bryan Democrats point to Mr. Bryan's former showing of ability to "come back" after he had been put "down and out" by the Parker crowd. Mr. Bryan, for himself, says the fight has only begun, and that he will keep up the battle to the end.

PLUNDER EXPERT.

Faulkner Renominated by Democrats To Pass Out House Jobs.

Democrats have renominated J. B. Faulkner, of Michigan City, for state representative. Faulkner says he will go after the speakership of the Indiana house, if he is re-elected. This same Faulkner was one of the Democratic plunder committee of the last house, and as such was in part responsible for the fact that the Democratic economy shouters practically doubled the number of employees shown by the previous Republican houses, and greatly increased the expenses on the legislature in other ways. It is to be said for Mr. Faulkner, however, that he was not guilty of foisting his household on the state, as did his fellow-plunderer, John Sweeney. Sweeney, by the way, is to be a Democratic nominee for state senator. He ought to be swatted.

Teddy's Politics.

Over in New York they are having a deuce of a time over politics. They do not know whether to call Teddy a Democrat, a regular Republican, or an Insurgent Republican, because he talks to Democrats and Republicans alike. Somebody talked to him about it the other day, and told Teddy he ought to take sides. Teddy upended him and said, "I want you to make it clear that I am seeing both sides. I wish you would make that emphatic. My main interest is in the state and on national issues I want to see both regulars and insurgents, party men and independents, as well as Republicans."

Then that sucker who was asking questions said to Teddy, "You don't want to see the Democrats win, do you?" Teddy replied, "Not if the Republicans do the right thing." That's what I like about that fellow. He stands up for the right. If a Democrat stands up and fights for the right, Teddy is with him. If a Republican stands up and fights for the right, Teddy is with him. Is Teddy a Democrat or a Republican? I confess I do not know but I do know this, that he will never fear to do anything except to do wrong. He is going to stand up and do the right as God gives him to see the right. I wish you and I could be like him.—H. Gard in Pittsboro Sun.

ROOSEVELT READY WITH HIS REASONS

Can Tell Indiana Voters of Good Work Done by Beveridge.

TEDDY'S RIGHT HAND MAN

Indiana Statesman Helped Advance Roosevelt Policies Very Effectively.

The Chicago Tribune, commenting on the coming of Col. Theodore Roosevelt to Indiana, to speak for the Republican ticket, details the relations between Senator Beveridge of Indiana and the former president, and concludes that Col. Roosevelt can give very good reasons why Senator Beveridge ought to be re-elected because of the good work the Indiana senior senator has done for the cause of the people. Here is the Tribune's article.

"In their own interest as well as that of the nation the people of Indiana should return Albert J. Beveridge to the United States Senate." This declaration will be made by former President Theodore Roosevelt in a speech he has promised to deliver in the Hoosier state. It will be an honest expression based upon intimate knowledge of Senator Beveridge's course which Col. Roosevelt had while in the White House.

"It will be an endorsement given to Beveridge less as the insurgent than as the man and Republican. It will be the return of the former President for the loyal, zealous way in which the Indian aided him in getting through legislation recognized as essential to the public interests.

"Mr. Beveridge will be given credit for vital assistance in:

"Molding the Philippine legislative policy, which has produced peace and order with civil government in the archipelago.

"The removal of the tariff wall between the United States and Porto Rico.

"Statehood for Oklahoma and Indian Territory, as against a proposal to organize two states.

"Enactment of the Federal meat inspection law.

"Enactment of the pure food laws.

"Development of reforms in connection with child labor.

"Protection against spoliation of the coal lands of Alaska.

"These are the things done for which it is possible specifically to give credit to the Indiana senator.

"There are many other laws enacted and policies enforced which he has influenced during the eleven years he has been in the Upper House of Congress. Take, for example, the debates in connection with the Aldrich tariff law.

"There is no doubt that the activity of Mr. Beveridge and the colleagues who fought with him caused a reasonable reduction in some of the schedules below that which had been contemplated, and also enabled the Indian to obtain an amendment to the act which forced the Tobacco Trust to pay millions annually to the government that under the laws of 1902 it had been collecting and keeping for itself.

"Similarly their attitude was responsible for substantial and valuable modifications of the railroad rates bill which was passed during the last session of Congress. It is true, likewise, that statehood for Arizona and New Mexico could not have been achieved had Mr. Beveridge objected. He occupies the post of chairman of the Committee on Territories and in that position easily could have prevented a statehood bill from being reported to the Senate.

"These several matters are recalled at this time both because it is desirable from a public point of view to call attention of Indiana to Mr. Beveridge's record as well as to the fact that the points are being considered by the former President in connection with the speech he will deliver in Indiana."

Can He "Come Back"?

But Mr. Bryan has heard other political obituaries and he has been buried before. Also he has proved that he can come back. The peerless loser is counted a dead one at the present time but it is safe to guess that when the time comes for another national convention he will be chief advisor as to candidate and platform.—Lafayette Journal.

Yes, indeed. He may even be the candidate. Stranger things have happened. But of course this result means he must whip the bosses again next November.

Farmers Pay Taxes.

Grant county farmers, having sold their wheat, are paying their taxes. This condition, brought about by a bumper crop and $1 wheat, has caused an unusual summer rush at the county treasurer's office. It is reported the farmers are going to the tax-paying with grins on their faces. And they are not talking in favor of the Democratic movement to reduce prices on farm products. They generally agree there is a strong leaning towards the Republican party in the rural communities.

HOW TO CURE ECZEMA, PIMPLES, AND DANDRUFF.

We desire to say that when we took the agency for ZEMO we were convinced that it was a valuable remedy for Eczema, Pimples and Dandruff. Yet we must frankly admit that Zemo has far exceeded our expectations as a treatment for skin diseases. We are pleased to state that we shall continue the agency as ZEMO has given splendid results wherever recommended. Our customers like ZEMO too, because it is a clean vegetable liquid for external use. ZEMO effects its cure by drawing to the surface of the skin and destroying the germ life that causes the disease, leaving the skin clear and healthy. It does not soil the clothing or linen and can be used freely on infants.

With every purchase we give a booklet on skin diseases explaining in simple words how any person can be cured at home of any form of skin or scalp diseases by this clean, scientific remedy.

TAFT'S POSITION FRANKLY STATED

Loyalty to Roosevelt Policies Proved Both in Words and Works.

SEEKS PEOPLE'S WELFARE

Measures Passed by Republican Congress Justified Taft Faith and Patience.

The Owen County Journal, Spencer, Ind., recently contained the following sensible article, which should be read with care by all voters:

President William Howard Taft is a progressive. He says he is in deep earnest in his efforts to advance Roosevelt policies, and to enact into laws the progressive ideas for which Theodore Roosevelt fought. In an interview in McClure's Magazine for June, the President sets forth some truths on which all citizens should study, and to which all elements of the Republican party should give careful heed. He declares himself to be one of the progressives, and pledges himself anew to Rooseveltism.

President Taft, Senator Beveridge and Indiana Republicans are in accord on all Roosevelt policies. The President, in discussing the Payne tariff law, makes plain his reasons for signing the measure, and explains the tariff situation as he saw it. The statement is such as other progressive Republicans have made, and it throws light on the President's stand, as well as on his real desires, motives and purposes.

Of chief interest to Indiana people is that portion of the Taft interview which demonstrates that in reality the President is working as best he may for the very things the Indiana Republican platform suggests, for the things that Senator Beveridge demands, and that the two men are a team for progress along Roosevelt lines.

"I believed, and had said repeatedly," President Taft says, "that properly carried out, the tariff plank of the Republican platform would result in a downward revision on many schedules in the Dingley tariff." The President tells how Speaker Joseph G. Cannon was quoted as saying that the platform did not call for a downward revision and how the press had it that the President would oppose Cannon for speaker. "Believing that Mr. Cannon had been correctly quoted, I was not unwilling that this should appear," says the President, "although I was perfectly aware that he could not be defeated."

What He Wanted.

The President tells what he wanted in the way of a tariff bill as follows: "What I wanted in a tariff bill is clearly expressed in the language of the Republican platform of 1908. The true principle of protection is best maintained by the imposition of such duties as will equal the differences between the cost of production at home and abroad, together with a reasonable profit to American industries. I felt that at least there should be free hides, free iron ore, free coal, free lumber and free petroleum. I placed myself against a raising of the rate on the cheaper cotton goods suggested; I insisted on cutting out high duties proposed on gloves, and urged reductions in other duties, including shoes and other manufactures of leather."

Woolen Schedule Wrong.

"I did not secure all the reductions I thought should be made. The woolen schedule should have been lowered; it was not, because a combination of Representatives from the manufacturing and wool growing sections of the east and west had a majority in Congress that was overwhelming."

"The Democratic South, with the northern lumbering states, prevented free lumber; another combination of the same sections made it impossible to lower the much criticised cotton schedules."

"I finally signed the bill. Not because it was a perfect tariff; ideal tariffs are an impossibility under the method of tariff legislation we have employed."

"I signed it because it was the best I could secure under the circumstances; because, all things considered, I did not believe myself justified in holding up the business of the country for months longer by vetoing this bill, on the chance of getting a better one."

"It was perfectly clear to me, at the time, that I could achieve a temporary personal popularity by vetoing this tariff bill. It was just as clear that if I did so I would cause such a split with my party in congress that the entire program of progressive legislation would be put in jeopardy."

Why He Signed It.

"As it was I kept the friendship and co-operation of the conservative Republicans in Congress—the only section where opposition might have been expected to develop—for my general program of legislation; and, at the same time, I secured, in the tariff bill itself, the means of bringing about what I stand for, and what I believe this country wants—a fair protective tariff, based not on guesswork but on actual evidence."

The President goes on to explain the tariff board or tariff commission plan which, in promising form, is embodied in the Payne law. What the executive of the nation has to say on the tariff commission idea is of especial interest in Indiana because of the fact that Senator Beveridge has been urging a tariff commission for several years, and because it was Senator Beveridge's amendment to the tariff bill which carried out, as far as possible, the commission project.

"Germany, France, and virtually every great tariff-making country, except the United States, secure tariff evidence through their own experts. In this country the only information for making tariffs is obtained from the warped and biased testimony of the men to be affected by their schedules."

Favors Tariff Board.

"The whole method is notoriously unscientific and wrong, an outworn system, which I believe should be changed. I believe that the work of a tariff board should be to secure and to present evidence, not to frame a tariff. With this evidence before it, Congress will act fairly and wisely, and the United States will have, under this method, a tariff established on a thoroughly scientific basis as it should have had a quarter of a century ago."

"My administration had from its start one work to do—to secure new legislation. The administration of President Roosevelt, like a great crusade, had awakened the people of the United States and accomplished great advances in the operation and the powers of the federal government. It was the business of the administration following his to make these permanent in the form of law."

"There was a definite program of legislation demanded by the country and promised by the Republican platform. One of the most important matters in it were new laws for the conservation of the national resources in the public domain. The policy to be pursued in the various laws in this program was very clear; I thoroughly believed in it; and I began, even before my inauguration, to organize my administration to do the work it was pledged to do."

"I have one aim in the presidency—to make a broad and permanent advance in the powers of the federal government, and in their enforcement. I have been pledged to this, and I propose to carry out my pledges. And I believe congress will put through a very considerable part of our program of progressive laws before this session is adjourned."

President Taft's June forecast of success in progressive legislation was amply borne out in the last two weeks of the congressional session.

JACKSON DUMPED.

Mr. Taggart Has His Own Way and Puts Sam Ralston in Charge.

Sam Ralston, of Lebanon, has been promoted. Mr. Ralston now is the actual head, next to Thomas Taggart, of the Democratic state campaign in Indiana. Mr. Ralston received six votes for state chairman against Stokes Jackson last winter. Mr. Taggart preferred Ralston, and he had the committee, but there was such a storm against this new dictation among the Marshall Democrats that Taggart permitted Jackson to succeed himself. The Marshall men were willing to admit Jackson's claim, and Jackson was elected.

Now Mr. Taggart has his own way by indirection. He has formed what is known as a "campaign" committee, and has put Sam Ralston at its head. This "campaign" committee has shoved the regularly elected state chairman aside, and Mr. Jackson has little to do but twiddle his plump thumbs and talk of making a political issue of $9 pork and $1 wheat.

Taggart is always on hand when the "campaign" committee meets, to "crank up" the Democratic auto if it balks at one or another of his schemes.

It was this "campaign" committee which put off inviting W. J. Bryan to speak in Indiana until after the Taggart crowd in Nebraska could overwhelm the Commoner in the Nebraska state convention, and send word that Bryan was "down and out."

It is now said the Taggart "campaign" committee, acting on reports from Nebraska bosses, will ignore Mr. Bryan, or will invite him "at the proper time," which means a late day, when it is known Mr. Bryan must refuse to come.

Will Be Changes.

The people of Fountain county are not so much concerned about state and national politics this time, but they are concerned about the increase of taxes under Democratic rule at home and their own local affairs. Incidentally while taking care of them, they can take care of state and national issues, but they are going to look this time to the election of men who will fill the local offices as if servants of the people and in their own interests. Yes, there will be changes.—Covington Republican.

Crop Money.

The elevators of Tipton have been busy the past few days and probably close to a hundred thousand dollars will have passed into the farmers' hands of Tipton county before the week closes. The elevators were paying 96 cents yesterday and claim to be paying this price on a very narrow margin. The merchants at Tipton smile when they see the farmers with their rolls of "long green" for they spend it liberally when necessity demands.—Tipton Advocate.

PENDULUM WAGS TOWARD BOSSES

Bryan Had His Swing in 1908 and Parker Crowd Now Controls.

J. HARMON TO THE FRONT

Ohio Furnishes New Parker to Lead Anti-Bryan Democrats in Campaign.

(Washington Letter.)

Judson Harmon is the Alton B. Parker of 1910 and 1912. Unless the rabid and arrogant anti-Bryan men abuse and ridicule W. J. Bryan back into power again, Judson Harmon probably will be the Democratic presidential nominee in two years from now, and the Democratic pendulum will have swung back again from Bryanism to reaction and Belmontism.

In 1896 rose W. J. Bryan, out of the west. His cause ran like wildfire. His advancement caused resentment in his own party. He was knifed by the easterners and their state bosses. The Belmont-Ryan-Murphy-Cleveland-Parker-Harmon crowd hit him with every available weapon, and he went down.

In Indiana it was the Taggart crowd that used the harpoon on Bryan.

That year, in Indiana, the anti-Bryan Democrats induced hundreds of Democratic precinct committeemen to resign and quit the Bryan organization. The fight for control was waged bitterly in 1898. Anti-Bryan men went on the tickets, and the Bryan men took their turn at swatting and getting even.

In 1900 Mr. Bryan went to the front again. His foes in the Democratic party swore it was to be his finish. He went down again. Their knives were sticking in his political person as he fell.

In 1902 the anti-Bryanites stepped into view again, and in their turn were whipped to a custard, to make a Bryan holiday.

Then came the Parker fiasco of 1904 when Democratic party nominees once again passed under the Bryan sword and political heads rolled everywhere.

The pendulum swung back that year to Bryan, and the Peerless One "came back." Rising to a new lease on national leadership, he made the presidential race in harness with the very men he had fought so bitterly in times past.

"This time we'll make sure he is snowed under for good," said the Parker-Taggart-Harmon crowd.

It snowed. Mr. Bryan was well covered up. But he emerged, not long ago, with blood in his eye. He is fighting his enemies within the Democratic party. He was knocked down the other day, and his own party convention turned him out. But he is still in fighting mood.

How will the pendulum swing this year? In Indiana the control is all in the hands of the Parker-Tammany-Harmon-Taggart crowd. The Bryan people have permitted things to slide. What will these same Bryan men do when voting time comes?

That is the question which worries the anti-Bryan bosses. The Bryan men are as silent as their chieftain.

With Bryan, they stand for things which Thomas Taggart refuses to accept. With Bryan, they refuse to accept Taggartism. And there you are!

ASHAMED OF TAVENNER.

Trust Letters From Washington Now Being Disguised.

The Tavenner letters from Washington, being exposed as trust-tainted stuff, obtained through Tom Taggart and his machine connection with Hermann Ridder and the foreign shipping combine, find no editorial defenders among Indiana Democrats, though many of the editors have had the good sense and decency to quit using the matter.

Some papers continue to use the stuff in disguised form. The Democratic publicity bureau has the effrontery to send out some of the tainted dope under the name of "Marion E. Leland," as editorial prepared by a woman for women.

If the Tavenner tainted stuff is to be used in Indiana, let it be labeled "Tavenner." Then the people will know how far they can trust it.

Bank Deposits.

A total of 7,145 national banks in the United States responded to the call of the controller of the currency for reports on their business on June 30, last. This is an increase of 219 banks since June 23, 1909.

The latest returns announced by the treasury show that individual deposits have increased $388,639,616 during that period; loans and discounts increased $394,275,670; total resources increased $424,892,033; capital stock increased $52,563,078, and the surplus and other profits increased $54,320,283. Circulation increased $34,320,283.

The stated aggregate of resources and liabilities is $9,896,624,697.

Just to show they will refuse to accept support from Lake county foreigners, Democrats have organized a Democratic campaign club among Gary Italians, and are trying to form other clubs among the foreign born voters of the steel city.

FULL OF SYMPATHY FOR THE STRUGGLER

S. C. Ferrell, for Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Fine intelligence, a gracious personality and wholesome comeliness of character are combined in Samuel C. Ferrell, the educator. Mr. Ferrell is strong among teachers and school workers in Indiana, and in his race for superintendent of public instruction, this year, it is predicted that the influence of county superintendents and instructors generally will be thrown in large measure to his cause. Mr. Ferrell's many years as a district school teacher, as a high school teacher and principal, as a city superintendent at Shelbyville, and as a county superintendent in Porter county, fit him to deal with all phases of school work in the state. His own experience—working his way through college, to his A. B. degree, before he was 21 years old—gives him the viewpoint of the aspiring student, and gives him to see the needs and the actualities of the school system. He has all the sympathy of the self-made man for the youth who is struggling upward towards success. Mr. Ferrell already is known widely as a helper of the young. As state superintendent he will widen that reputation in a most practical and beneficent way.

SHIVELY AGAIN.

Directs Campaign in Indiana Against Tariff Commission Idea.

Senator Shively rises in Indiana to denounce the tariff commission. This, in Indiana, where the tariff commission congress was held, and where business men, workmen and farmers alike agree that the tariff commission idea is both fair and sensible. Republicans, and most Democrats—who believe thoroughly in the tariff commission proposal,—were amazed by Senator Shively's announcement. Sam Ralston had proclaimed against the tariff commission, but no one paid much attention to that. Senator Shively, however, as leader of the Democratic tariff campaign, absolutely commits his party to the making of a fight against the greatest progressive proposition suggested in this country in a decade. Senator Shively commits the absent and exiled John W. Kern to a fight against the tariff commission. He commits Governor Marshall to the same fight.

It is the old, reliable Joe Bailey doctrine, right over again. Senator Shively agrees with Joe Bailey that the tariff commission, not only is unconstitutional, but is an unmitigated evil and menace, because it will bring about fair play for the people. Joe Bailey agrees with the great trusts for whom he labors day and night, that the tariff commission plan of fair play must never be carried through, if the trusts can prevent it. Joe Bailey speaks through Senator Shively in Indiana. Who will listen?

State Chairman Stokes Jackson also is against the tariff commission.

Claiming Teddy.

There was a fight in Indianapolis a few days ago concerning the politics of Mr. Roosevelt. One man contended that he was a Democrat and the Republican resented the charges. In this incident we have foreshadowed the time when the Democratic party will be claiming Roosevelt as its own. Having appropriated Lincoln we may expect an effort to capture the fame of Roosevelt.—Bloomfield News.

BRIEFS

L. C. Johnson is the new postmaster at Hartford City.

George Q. Biegler, of Indiana, has been made a national bank examiner.

Tim Englehart, of Gary, is said to be hot after the Democratic nomination for joint senator for Lake and Porter.

Charles B. Riley, formerly secretary of the Indiana Railroad Commission, says Republican prospects are getting better every day.

Captain L. L. Denison, of Garrett, Dekalb county, is the Republican nominee for state representative. His friends say he will win on his published platform of principles.

S. K. Ganiard, formerly a state senator, has been nominated by Republicans of Lagrange and Elkhart counties for prosecutor. Judge James Drake is the choice for circuit judge. Both were named by acclamation.

Failed in Health

"My mother died six years ago," writes Miss Ruth Ward, of Jerseyville, Ill., "and left me to care for six children. I had never been strong; and this, with the shock of her death, was too much for me."

"I failed in health. I was tired all the time and did not want to go anywhere, nor care for company. I had the headache all the time and such bearing-down pains."

"A very dear friend advised me to take Cardui, as it had done her so much good, so I commenced to use it and now I am in good health."

Take CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

Women's pains are relieved or prevented and women's strength is quickly restored, by Cardui, the woman's tonic. You yourself know best if you need it, or not.

If you do need it, do not delay, but commence to use it at once. Every day of delay, only lets you slide further down the hill.

Don't wait, then, but begin to take Cardui today, for its use, no matter how prolonged, cannot harm you and will surely do you good.

CRIPPEN TELLS
DEW THE STORYHow He Came to Kill His Wife.

THE OUTCOME OF A QUARREL

According to Current Belief in Quebec, Dr. Crippen Has Confessed to Inspector Dew That After Ceaseless Bickering He Strangled Belle Elmore to Make Her Keep Quiet; That She Fainted and Died.

Quebec, Aug. 4.—From the jubilant attitude of Inspector Dew and Chief McCarthy, from the fact that Dew has said his troubles are now over for a while and he has gone on a pleasure jaunt to Niagara Falls; from the fact that he has addressed a long cablegram to Scotland Yard, and above all from the fact that one official in the attorney general's office has said so, there appears to be no doubt that Crippen has confessed to the crime of murdering his wife, Belle Elmore, in London.

After her arrest, broken and nervous, the Leneve woman clung to Captain Kendall as her only solace. He had been kind to her on the voyage, and she trusted him. While sitting in her cabin, once more attired in woman's clothing, she confided to the captain what she knew of the case. He turned his information over to Inspector Dew in confidence. Dew instructed one of the daughters of Mrs. Phillips, the matron of the jail, to approach Miss Leneve and, without making any promises of help or freedom, to attempt to gain further information. She was successful and the information she gleaned was used by Dew to play on Crippen's weary mind. He finally, after hours of interviewing and questioning, broke down.

He claims he did not intend to commit murder. He and his wife had been fighting and bickering. He strangled her to make her keep quiet. She fainted and later died. Fearing the consequences, he made all haste to cover up his deed. This story is vouched for by a government official.
Neither Dew nor any of the Canadian officers will affirm or deny it, but there is a feeling of relief in police circles.

Crippen is more closely guarded than ever, and everything points to the fact that he has confessed.

Crippen Has London Lawyer.

London, Aug. 4.—Friends of Dr.
Hawley Harvey Crippen in London have come to his assistance. They asked Arthur Newton, who is a well-known London criminal lawyer, to take up the defense of Crippen. Mr. Newton cabled the doctor asking for confirmation of his selection, and Crippen replied accepting his services.

SNAKES PLENTIFUL

In Brown County This Year—One Farmer Bitten.

A Nashville special says: "Leonidas Artis, a farmer, living near Georgetown, while walking in a field was bitten by a copperhead snake. He picked up a stick and killed the reptile and ran to the house, but when near the door he fainted and his son carried him in.
A doctor was summoned and found Mr. Artis to be in a serious condition, although there is a chance for his recovery. The doctor went out to see the snake, and lying near it was another of the same kind and size. He killed it and measured them both. They were five feet long.

"Snakes are numerous this year.
Berry pickers at several places have been forced to leave the patches on account of rattlesnakes. A few miles south of here berry pickers killed seven and allowed five to escape, all rattlers. John Deckard, a farmer near Cooper, has killed thirteen already this year. Fourteen big snakes have been killed within the limits of the town in the last three weeks.

"Birds and squirrels seem to be as plentiful as snakes. Farmers who have given their lands over to game preserves say the woods are alive with squirrels. On the farm of Anderson Perefield, a few miles west of here thirty-three were counted in the tall trees in one morning. Mr. Perefield allows no hunting on his farm and the squirrels have become very tame. Hungarian pheasants are also multiplying very fast."

TRADES FARM.

Henry Bruning Gets Stock of Merchandise.

Henry Bruning, who was at one time recorder of Jackson county, has traded his farm in Lawrence county for a general store at Saltillo, near Campbellsburg. Ray Keach will go Monday to invoice the stock of goods. Mr. Keach has become quite an expert in this line. During the last few years he has invoiced fifteen or twenty stocks of goods.

We do "Printing That Pleases."

THE GOVERNMENT.

Will Coin No More $2.50 Gold Pieces.

The treasury department has decided to coin no $2.50 gold coins this year. Commercially the coin has little value and it is only about Christmas time that it comes into real use. Being the smallest gold coin in circulation it is taken up at that time for Christmas presents, most of it coming back again to the treasury within a few weeks.
In fact, if congress would give its consent, the treasury department would be glad to abolish the coin altogether.

At the present time there is about $2,500,000 of these coins in the treasury, sub-treasury and mints of the government, with no demand for them from anywhere.
As the annual gold coinage of the government is about $100,000,000 a year the determination not to coin $2.50 gold pieces will have no appreciable effect on the amount of new gold money to be put into circulation this year.

GOOD POSITION.

Held by Young Man Who is Spending Vacation Here.

John Kirby, private secretary of M. E. Ingalls, who is chairman of the Board of Directors of the New York Central lines, is spending his vacation in Seymour with his cousin, Mrs. E. C. Bollinger and family. Mr. Kirby comes from Aurora and is about twenty-two years of age. Five years ago he entered Mr. Ingalls' office, taking a minor place and has worked his way up to his present responsible position. He travels much of the time and has been in every section of the country since taking his present position.

Returned Home.

Dr. Hill, Perry Collins, A. V.
Lawell, Fred Seiarra and Joseph Dixon returned yesterday evening from the K. of P. encampment.
Sherman Day got off at Logansport for a lunch and missed the train. The Seymour company took part in the review Tuesday.
The weather at Milwaukee was fine and the men enjoyed their stay greatly. Other members of the company will come in at different times during the week.

ARRANGEMENTS

For the Big Reunion of Old Soldiers of This District.

The veterans having charge of the Fourth District reunion of old soldiers, to be held at Columbus, October 12, are planning to make it a big affair. Commander W. J.
Durham, of the local G. A. R. post, has received a communication from the managers in which they urge the attendance of the veterans from this county, and say:

"We will see that meals are provided at reasonable rates, and so arrange that all can eat together, if so desired. A commodious hall, good music and good speakers will be provided, and will cost visitors nothing. Different halls will be provided in which the Sixth, Twelfth, Seventeenth, Twenty-second, Eighty-second, Ninety-third,
One Hundred and Forty-fifth, Tenth Cavalry, and perhaps the Twenty-seventh and Sixty-seventh Indiana will hold reunions.
All artillerymen will have place for meeting. These organizations can hold meetings, if they so desire, from 10 to 11:45 a. m., and from 1:30 to 3 p. m. From 3:30 to 5 p. m., a business meeting of the Fourth District and at night a parade, fireworks and a grand rally or campfire at the city hall. The Department commander and staff are coming and they greatly desire to meet you here."

ASSISTED.

In Capture of John Brownfield at Tampico.

Ray Keach of this city, was the man who notified the sheriff that John Brownfield, who escaped from jail, was at Tampico. Mr.
Keach happened to be spending the day at his store there. The sheriff had telephoned a description of the fugitive and when the latter stopped at Keach's store he was recognized. Mr. Keach and others kept track of him until Frank Browning arrived. About twenty-five of them accompanied the latter to make the capture which proved an easy job. The man was badly scared and cried when the crowd entered the barn and aroused him from sleep. Had he not stopped at the store and had kept off the roads he might have escaped.
